Please don't ruin Enfield. One of its great strengths is the amount of green land and parks that the area has. It's why I moved here from Islington 20 years ago. There isn't room for 25,000 new homes in Enfield. If people need a home let them find one elsewhere where there is plenty of land to build on. Don't build on our valuable parks and green spaces. Don't ruin the area with huge towers. I am distressed at the things that are happening in London in general and this has really upset me. Do we not value this city, borough and it's residents any more.
