Dear Sirs

I have lived in Enfield for over 50 years and have witnessed many changes which are valued and also value many things that have not changed.

Clearly many services provided by Enfield Council have deteriorated, especially recycling collection and the ability to make contact with Enfield Council but for some reason Enfield wishes to increase house building regardless of the effect on existing Council Tax payers, and its ability to deliver the services that will need to be provided. It would seem that the policy does not have regard to practicalities and residents welfare both mental and physical but to feed the misplaced Council ambition.

The widespread destruction of the Green Belt should not take place but the use of brownfield sites should be given priority. In many cases brownfield use can improve conditions for surrounding residents as well as fulfilling the housing need. The widespread use of the green belt will have many adverse affects, including increased traffic congestion and the harm to the environment

I object to the Draft Local Plan and trust that the Plan will not be implemented.

Yours faithfully
