To whom it may concern,

I find it astonishing that Enfield Council are even considering building on the Greenbelt when there are so many brownfill sites around the borough which ought to be used first. When once the Greenbelt has gone, it can never return. It's no use saying that for every tree cut down, one will be planted. Mature trees are irreplaceable and we'll lose the benefit from them while we wait for the replacements to grow.

Lockdown has shown us just how much we all need green spaces. People living in high rise blocks were very grateful that they could get to a green space easily. Are you going to take this away because money is more important than health?

One accident on the M25, which seems to happen on an almost daily basis, and the roads in the area reach gridlock.

More people means more children; where will they go to school?

We've lost one A & E department and the remaining ones can't cope now so what hope for the future? Can the GPs cope with any more patients? Again, money before health. What a mess!

Close car parks, close retail stores; both mean loss of jobs for local residents. Again, money before the well being of people. Where will all these new residents work?

What a wonderful Council we have who are prepared to put money before the very people who unfortunately elected them on promises that are not being kept.

I rest my case.
