

I am not a resident of Hadley Wood but I make a daily commute to this area. The vast spaces and the greenery lends to the charm and beauty of the place. Its what attracts people to lead walks and visit Trent park.

However, the transport system is appalling, with infrequent bus services, necessitating the need for a car.

Local amenities, too, are practically non-existent. Additional housing would put extra pressure on the whole infrastructure.

Green belts should be preserved and meadows maintained for future generations and for the good of the planet.
