

Sainsbury's site

I wish to object in the strongest possible terms about this proposal.

There is absolutely no logical reasoning behind it-we have not suffices infrastructure to support these houses.

There are nowhere near enough school places, or GP provision, or other facilities.

What will happen to roads around the area, which are already frequently jammed with cars at busy times of day.

The amount of disruption this would cause is momnmental, and total the proposal is utterly wrong headed.

Then, of course, there is the issue of Sainsbury's store, which is a very heavily used supermarket, relied ion by the local population. Where will they now go to shop.

I oppose this vehemently
