I am writing to object to polices to transfer part of Whitewebbs park a public amenity into private hands I reject the councils analysis that it was losing money and call for a reinstatement.

Why is there a need to build on greenfield sites when old industrial areas of Enfield are still available.

Crewes hill is a great asset to Enfield and employs many people in the area.

Who gains from all this development, the developers not the man in the street.

There is a lot of history in Enfield that will go for ever, with people who do not care and do not want to care once its gone its gone (Crown jewels syndrome)

To add housing is pollution from transport and heating.

More vehicles in the area and no infrastructure for vehicle and housing.

If anything is to go by the example of Chase farm housing no gardens and no ware to park just concrete jungle. Packed together??

Very poor planning and control

Was a very pleasant place
