With reference to the above I wish to object to what amounts to the destruction of the green belt in favour of creating nothing but a concrete jungle, the establishment of which is not needed in such an area . Further, where did Rectory Farm disappear to? This now seems to be part of Vicarage Farm. Does this mean the current farming activities will now cease through the whole area.

Having made the point I understand people need to be housed but taking such action shouldn't mean the destruction of the environment by wilful neglect of ill informed planners who do not seem to have any local knowledge, if they did such plans would not have been contrived.

To conclude I'm hopeful of common sense prevailing and now look forward to a reversal of your draft plan proposal.
