Please do not build on the Green Belt.

There surely must be a way that we can build the homes that we need in some other way.

I note that the Mayor of London's office is estimating that approximately a million additional people will be added to the population of London by 2030.

I would encourage Enfield Council to lobby the UK Government to implement policies which enable this new population to live and work in parts of the UK which are under MUCH LESS urban pressure than the area inside the M25.

As you consider this suggestion, I would point out that the box south of Bedford and west of Reading (i.e. the "south east of England") already contains more than 40% of THE TOTAL population of the UK. This is already unsustainable, and a million more population in the next ten years will simply make matters worse.

Worse for everyone.....including Enfield Council.

Please:

1. Re-focus your attention towards LIMITING the pressure on the Green Belt
2. Expend your political capital in Westminster to lobby for sustainable policies FOR THE UK AS A WHOLE.
