

Dear Sir/Madam,

I don't want to miss on the opportunity to oppose with the strongest to your vision for the future of Enfield Town. To redevelop the shopping centre to build a tower of flats it's one of the worse ideas this council have had.

It's bad enough the towers you are agreeing to build on Enfield Town Overground Station land at the time when high rises are being questioned all throughout the country after the Grenfell disaster, which is leaving owners with a huge bill to fit, not to mention the perpetuation of a capitalist model of leases, where real estate landlord companies benefit from constructing a building for centuries at the expense of residents.

Another idea with lack of proper thought is that of developing more tower blocks around the A10, at the current B&Q and Gala bingo sites, sites that are disconnected from the community and only surrounded by retail parks.

A different approach is necessary, with lower developments, better integrated in the community, reutilising and modernising council resources so our green is kept as the required resource to be passed on to future generations and where the figure of the freeholder does not exist.
