

Hi,

I'm emailing in support of the new local plan. House prices have skyrocketed and we need more housing in and around London so that young people can afford to live and have kids.

The fertility rate among young people today is lower than ever because they can't afford a stable place to live until they're about 40, the country is heading for Japanese/Korean style demographic collapse.

Plus a golf course takes up a lot of land for quite a small number of golfers to enjoy it makes more sense to build homes on it. And I say that as a keen golfer
