

Dear Sir/Madam

I am totally and strongly opposed to the proposed development of the green belt area designated site SA45 in the plans considered by Enfield Council.

I and my family have now lived in Hadley Wood since 1996 and enjoy the unique heritage landscape that it offers. It was infact the biggest single factor that attracted us to move to the area 25 years ago. It would be devastating if this landscape was changed forever.

In this day and age of climate change, when the rest of the world countries are encouraging growing and establishing more greenery, I see no valid reason why we should be destroying the green fresh air producing areas. Their destruction and building of concrete structures will encourage man created climate changes, already a world wide concern, leading to extreme changes in temperatures and flooding which is already a problem in this area as evidenced in the past 12 months. We should be encouraging planting trees/plants/scrubs rather than destroying such.

May I encourage the council to look at brown sites for extra housing rather than destroying our green belt. Has the council done any studies as regard to the need of any further dwellings as there seems to be a lot of development around the built up areas adjacent to Hadley Wood, that developers are struggling to sell?

The proposed development at site SA45 , in my strong opinion , is not sustainable, non viable and is going to alter our beautiful landscape for ever .It will increase risk of extreme flooding, traffic and increased pollution, and I strongly urge the council to decline this proposal.
