

The suggestions to destroy our green belt areas are a disgrace. Enfield already has too many people in it and it is absolutely disgusting to read the plans for destroying what was once London's greenest Borough. I am quite confident that those making the plans, and those making a fortune out of them do not live in the Borough. It is an outrage. These homes, if they are needed, should be put in a less populated area, and an infrastructure needs to be put in place to support the extra residents.
