You are making a bad decision about taking away our Enfield Green belt, don't you think it should be kept? It is part of our history, daily life, and homes for our habitats. The government tell up to look after the wildlife, and our land due to lack of oxygen yet we are destroying it. It is also a great area to plant area to plant trees which will help increase oxygen levels plus when cutting trees down, it is good to make products such as furniture, paper, books etc and tissues. It is also be a great area for jobs. Please think about making this decision as loads of people use this area for different reasons. There are too many people in United Kingdom so there is no need to make more houses. Don't know why we are sending more people over here when there is no where for them to live. The government and council need to start thinking about the people who are more vulnerable. I would like a response from someone about their opinion, if you don't reply, it will show that Enfield Council is ignorant and don't care about their own people in the area.

Looking forward to having a reply
