

My wife and I are totally opposed to the Council's plan to build houses on Enfield's Green Belt. The Green Belt is one of Enfield's most precious resources: we use it on a daily basis for exercise, for walking our dog or for taking out our grandchildren. Enfield's wide open spaces are one of the main reasons we moved to the borough six years ago and building houses there would completely wreck the borough's unique character.