

Hello

I am writing to oppose Enfield Council's proposals to build on Green Belt and other currently undeveloped land, through the Local Plan.

Because of the impact on wildlife - death, from the loss of habitat

Because of the impact on watercourses - pollution.

Because of the noise, air and light pollution which urbanization brings.

Because the undeveloped parts of London should not be covered in tarmac to cater for the undefined "needs" of the people of the world who might be living in London, at some time in the future.

Instead, to stop the outward sprawl of London:

Build upwards, not outwards.

Designate land for car-free housing development, on existing underused car parks and existing retail sites which current trends suggest will soon become redundant.

Retain the Green Belt for what it was intended for.

And think about what existing residents of London might want. After having lived in a polluted over-populated city, ruined by the motor car, for 60 years, I want to see change. Do it, or get out.
