

I object strongly to the plan to turn the beautiful Firs Farm Wetland into an ugly cemetery. Much work from volunteers has been put into transforming this into an open space, and they have clearly been duped into thinking their wonderful efforts will endure when the council is underhandedly planning to trash their labours and dreams. Shame on you! It is full of wildlife that residents, like myself, can easily walk to in order to exercise and experience a green and peaceful calming environment. There is not much pleasant green space in the area and this will encourage those seeking such an environment to use their cars to travel to much further areas.
